

I am adding a couple of fun classes that will take place during lunch break.

They will be judged by me and I may grab some assistants to help me judge who are not participating in the classes. There are no "set" judging criteria and keep in mind these classes are just for fun! I may also recruit the opinions of all the entrants, depending on time, the number of entries, and how the show is running. Here are the fun classes:

1. Commonality Collectors Class - much like the commonality class that will take place at Breyerfest this year, this class is a collector's class made up of 6-12 models that have something in "common". Models should be on the same mold, belong to a set that goes together (such as the proud arabians), or be of the same color (or families of colors, such as wedge wood and copenhagen or solid silver and silver filigree). No set ups!!! The models will be based on their merit as a group of models. However, description cards are encouraged and you definitely can "Theme" your entries with description cards! You may also add small accessories if you wish. By small I mean the accessories should be smaller than stablemates, unless of course they are original Breyer products designed to help your entry.

2. Variety Collectors Class - much like the variety class at Breyerfest this year, this class is for collections with an assortment of molds/colors/models. No set ups!!! The models will be based on their merit as a group of models. However, description cards are encouraged and you definitely can "Theme" your entries with description cards! You may also add small accessories if you wish. By small I mean the accessories should be smaller than stablemates, unless of course they are original Breyer products designed to help your entry.

3. The Gift Horse - have you ever been given a fugly gift horse? Maybe by the innocent relative who knows nothing about horses, but knows you will love it because, well, it's a horse, and you love all things horses?! Bring your awful gift horses, and we will pick the best of the worst!

4. Custom by owner - this class is not for professional customizers: i.e. if someone has paid you to paint or customize a horse in any way, please do not enter this class. Bring your custom by owner horses! Have you been trying to learn to paint and customize? This is the class for your models.

5. It's Special to Me! - do you have a model that is special to you? Perhaps you have an emotional attachment to it. Maybe it was your first model horse, and you've had it since you were five, and even though it's beat to death you love it and would never part with it! Bring out your special models and please include a description or story of why the model is so special to you.

Fun classes will run simultaneously - so there will be no cross entries between the classes. Horses of any make and finish are welcomed. Horses entered in the regular show may also compete in fun classes.
